Dear Resident

Re: Fire system emergency door release switches within your building

We write on behalf of the Executive Committee with regards to a recent incident when an unknown person tampered with a piece of fire equipment. This set off the fire alarm and required the fire brigade to attend.

The fire equipment that was tampered with was an emergency door release, when the glass is pressed in. It will deactivate the security system on the door and automatically activate the fire alarm system.

It is an offence under the Emergencies Act, 2004 to tamper with a piece of fire equipment inside your building.

We thank you in anticipation of your assistance.
